

CONGRESSMEN SAY PAUL JONES'S BODY SHOULD REST HERE

New York Representatives in Favor of Naval Hero's Remains Being Brought Here for Burial, and Organizations Would Carry Out His Wish.

In response to The Evening World's telegraphic inquiries sent to Congressmen and other prominent men, the following replies have been received:

To the Editor of The Evening World:
In answer to your telegram, I wish to say that I am in favor of interring the bones of John Paul Jones in New York City in accordance with his desires expressed in his death.

WILLIAM SULZER,

Member of Congress, Tenth New York District.

To the Editor of The Evening World:
Admiral John Paul Jones always impressed me as being famed for two things. First, as the "Father of Our Navy." Second, for his expressed desire to live and die in New York City. I therefore heartily favor the movement to inter his remains in New York, the city of his choice. There can be no more appropriate or fitting manner for the American people to show respect and reverence to his memory.

TIMOTHY D. SULLIVAN,

Member of Congress, Eighth New York District.

SOCIETIES HERE SHOULD TAKE ACTION.

To the Editor of The Evening World:
Replying to your telegram regarding the last resting-place of the famous Admiral, John Paul Jones, there can be no question of the eminent fitness and propriety of having his body interred in this city, where he desired to live and die. The patriotic societies of the State and city should at once take action, sending committees to the proper authorities at Washington urging this course.

J. A. GOULDEN,

Member of Congress, Eighteenth New York District.

If any argument were needed to stir the people of this city up to their obvious duty of seeing that the body of John Paul Jones is brought here from France and buried here, it would be found in any reliable biography of the great naval hero.

Paul Jones loved the country for which he fought so bravely, and of all parts of it he loved New York the best. A far-seeing man, he realized all those years ago that the time would come when New York would be the greatest city in the country he did so much to create, and he frequently expressed a desire to spend his last days here. It is not too late now to give him a last resting place in the city he loved so well. Among the many places suggested for the interment of the bones of Paul Jones none has met with such favor as Trinity Churchyard. In this historic ground he should be buried, and will be buried unless the present plans go astray.

Not only the officers of the various patriotic societies in this city have received the idea enthusiastically, but hundreds of individuals familiar with the life of John Paul Jones have written to The Evening World expressing their aid to the movement. This sentiment is rapidly crystallizing, and before long will result in the formation of plans for the consummation of the work started by The Evening World. There is little need of prodding such organizations as the Sons and Daughters of the Revolution, the Order of Founders and Patriots and the others associated with the early history of the country. To no group of citizens has the plan to bring John Paul Jones's body to New York and bury it in Trinity appeared so strongly, for the lives

NEW YORK IS YET HIS HOOODOO

Sullivan Couldn't Quit It Even by Sending Bullet Into Head and Tumbling Into the River—Now in Hospital.

After firing a bullet into his head today Arthur Sullivan hung off the end of pier 4 East River with his left arm wrapped around a wire rope and stood off with the pistol several men bent on saving him from falling into the river. For five minutes he kept them dodging and then slipped into the water just as Andrew Deery made a rush to catch him.

Capt. W. H. Flannery ran the tug Eddie Garrison near Sullivan and a deckhand grabbed him.

"Why did you shoot yourself?" asked Flannery.

"I was tired of New York and wanted to leave the town," replied the man.

"It's a hoooodoo to me."

He said he had no home, but had rich relatives in Chicago. By the time an ambulance arrived from Hudson Street hospital he was unconscious, and the surgeon said his wound was probably mortal.

Pier 4 is used by the New York Central. Charles Judge, the superintendent, saw Sullivan and said he was looking at the river, then he shot himself with a pistol, and then shot himself behind the right ear.

"Several of the men heard the shot," said Judge, "and we all rushed out to see the man. But we stopped when we saw the man was dead. There was a look in his eyes that showed he meant business."

Andrew Deery went out one of the side doors and edged along to the end of the pier. The man was looking at us and didn't see Deery, who made a rush at him just as he fell."

Sullivan is said to be about fifty-five years old. His clothes were shabby, but clean.

GIFT FROM POPE ON VIEW.

The large crucifix presented by Pope Pius X to St. Benedict's African Mission in West Fifty-third street, will be on exhibition at Fifty-third street, to-morrow, and during the remainder of the week will be seen at the Bishop's Fair in the mission.

Big Crowd of Deputy Sheriff Walgering's Friends, Husband and Father, Attend the Services.

Scores of the friends of Deputy Sheriff Frank Walgering gathered in the little Roman Catholic Church of the Assumption, at No. 42 West Forty-ninth street, today, for the funeral of his wife, Mrs. Regina Walgering, and his two daughters, Regina and Angela, who were asphyxiated by gas last Friday in their homes, at No. 235 West Fifty-second street. Officials of the City Hall, the Tombs Prison and the Ludlow Street Jail, as well as of Mr. Walgering's office, attended the services. Five carriages were filled with the flowers.

A solemn requiem mass was said by Rev. Henry Neuenhust, the rector, assisted by Rev. Fathers Stehle and Maute. The burial of the mother and daughters was in Calvary Cemetery. The funeral cortege formed at the Walgering residence, 135 West George W. Plunkitt, with the members of his organization, the Washington Hall Club, and members of the Holy Name Society of the church formed an escort for the first part of the funeral. The body of Mrs. Walgering, the wife of the deputy sheriff, was carried by the Holy Name Society, and the bodies of the two daughters, Regina and Angela, were carried by the Holy Name Society of the church and classmates with Misses Regina and Angela in the parochial school.

Satisfaction in Regals

The longer an ill-shaped shoe wears the worse you feel about it. You never tire of Regals, because Regals are right in the first place—and they stay right.

Regal style stands unchallenged. It is the result of the taste and skill of the world's master designers, for every line and curve of their models is duplicated in Regals.

Regal comfort is insured by Regal Quarter Sizes and by the careful hand-work that moulds each shoe over individual lasts for right and left.

Regal Oxfords are an absolute innovation in the shoe business. They are all built on specially designed Oxford lasts—while other manufacturers' low shoes are built on the lasts made up for their high shoes.

And it makes all the difference in the world. It makes your Regal Oxfords fit snugly at heel and sides, and prevents every chance of the common Oxford failing—chafing at the heel and gaping at the sides.

The economies of the Regal Tannery-to-Consumer system make possible the Regal price—$3.50.

TO FIX BLAME OF SIGHT-SEEING AUTO TRAGEDY

Coroner's Jury Probing Cause of the Accident That Killed Passenger.

The death of one man and the injuring of two women, caused by a sight-seeing automobile at Eighth avenue and Fifty-seventh street, has again called attention to the danger attendant upon driving these huge, top-heavy machines through the crowded thoroughfares of the city. In the past there have been numerous complaints about these big automobiles. Commissioner McAdoo has more than once expressed himself on the subject of these sight-seeing cars, but as they are operated entirely within the law it has not been possible to restrict their use.

The greatest danger to passengers using them comes from outside causes. It was an extraneous cause which produced the accident yesterday, and those who saw the casualty say it is little short of a miracle that every passenger on a parade was not thrown to the street.

Many Witnesses of Accident. Responsibility for the accident of yesterday will have to be fixed by a coroner's jury. Joseph Flynn, the chauffeur, and John Keegan, the motor-man, are both under arrest, and fortunately there are a dozen or more witnesses who will be able to tell exactly what happened.

The automobile smashed yesterday is one of the largest in the city, containing eight rows of seats. It was on its way back to the Hotel Bartholdi, its starting point, when Flynn, who had come down Eighth avenue from the park, started to turn off the car tracks at Fifty-seventh street, meaning to cross to Broadway. Keegan's car was just behind it. It had been kept behind its schedule for some distance because of the automobile in its way, and when Flynn turned east Keegan started up fast, evidently expecting the machine to get out of his way. But before it was off the track the car hit it, drove it on side wheels around the corner and up against a fruit stand.

Man Killed, Two Women Hurt.

Charles P. Koster, twenty-one years old, of No. 138 Eighth avenue, and his fiancée, Miss Annie Finnerman, of No. 110 West Nineteenth street, were on the front seat. Koster grabbed Miss Finnerman around the waist, and then the two either fell or jumped from the machine. Miss Finnerman was laid out unconscious on the road. Koster fell under the wheels of the heavy machine and they passed over his chest, crushing the life out of him. Mrs. Angelina Romano, wife of the owner of the fruit stand, was buried in the wreckage and also badly injured.

The real cause of the accident was the unwieldiness of the automobile. In turning corners these sight-seeing machines have to come almost to a stop. Among road drivers, park policemen and others familiar with traffic in and around Central Park the danger of the sight-seeing automobiles has long been recognized. They are constantly getting into the most congested places and causing confusion. The least excitement on the part of some other drivers might ram one or cause an accident. They cannot be steered as lighter vehicles and are regarded as dangerous on that account.

Roundman Reed, who is stationed at the Fifty-ninth street entrance of the park, said today that who he had never seen one of these cars in an accident, he was always expecting it. The chauffeur, he said, are very careful, but cannot be responsible for what other drivers and chauffeurs do.

Policeman McAdoo, who is stationed at Columbus Circle, said:

"These cars cause blockades constantly and are a never-ending source of trouble. They are not so much a menace to the lives of outsiders as they are to the lives of those who ride on them. I have never actually seen an accident before the one that occurred yesterday, but I would never be astonished at anything that happened to such slow and cumbersome machines."

Several park policemen on duty today of the danger to the machines from the young men who would race very little shock to overturn one of them.

Commissioner McAdoo, in speaking of the accident to-day, said:

"I am opposed to making a show place of Chinatown, especially at night. I do not know if I can stop those sight-seeing automobiles from going into Chinatown late at night, but they need certainly expect no favors from me. From the police point of view, slumming parties, especially those containing the young men, are not desirable in Chinatown, particularly at late hours of the night, whether they go there on the tour of the cars or otherwise. This year these cars are larger than ever, and consequently more obstructive."

The WANAMAKER STORE ANNOUNCES FOR TOMORROW

The Greatest Sale of USED PIANOS

Ever Presented to the Public

ABOUT a hundred and seventy-five instruments—Pianos and Angelus Piano Players—have accumulated in our warehouses since our last offering in January. All have come to us in the natural course of transactions in this great piano business.

Most of the instruments have been taken in exchange from purchasers of our new pianos. Many other splendid offerings are pianos that have been out on rental, and which are now marked at concessions that thrifty people will be glad to profit by—for the instruments cannot be told from absolutely new pianos. In this group there are some fine Chickering, Vose and Kurtzmann pianos that scarcely show a mark of use. Yet there is a fine sum to be saved on each.

The Sale will occupy special space all over the Fifth Floor. It is the largest and finest collection of Pianos ever offered here or elsewhere under-price.

NOT ONLY ARE SAVINGS GREAT BUT TERMS ARE EASY AS DESIRED

Look for all the details in the New York Morning Papers. But prepare to come early, for the selling is always rapid on these extraordinary occasions.
